MUCH SNOW ON RIO GRANDE WATERSHED THROUGHOUT NEW MEXICO

Gila, Mimbres and Pecos Watersheds Also Have Plenty of Snow and Much Moisture Is Promised.

Santa Fe, N. M., Jan. 15.—Fairly heavy snow fell in the mountain districts during the closing days of November and frequent snow storms during December gradually increased the depth of snow, says the weather bureau. The unusually protracted cold weather during December, which was the coldest month for the territory on record, prevented the snow from melting, and at the close of the month the accumulated depth was much greater over the watersheds of New Mexico than for the past several years.

In the San Juan watershed the average depth in the valley was 11 inches, the same as a year ago, and in the mountains 24 inches, or six inches greater than last year. In the Rio Grande watershed the average for the valleys was nearly 10 inches and in the mountains 27 inches, five inches more than it was a year ago.

Over the San Francisco, Gila and Mimbres, the average in the mountains was 20 inches and in the marked contrast to the average of last year, which was 15 inches. The reports from the Canadian watershed gave an average of 15 inches for the mountain districts, four inches more than a year ago, and eight inches for the valleys. In the valleys of the Pecos and Southeast watershed the average was eight inches and in the mountain 16 inches, a material increase over last year.

The following notes are from reports of correspondents:

Rio Grande Watershed.
Ortiz, Colo.—J. F. Ortiz—There is more firm and compact snow at this season than during the past five years; as a rule it is evenly distributed but some of the drifts are 20 feet or more in depth. Osier, Colo.—Wm. Jenkins—The snow has drifted and extends farther down the range than usual; at timber line it is 40 inches in depth. Abiquin—Jacob Passner—The snow is compact in the mountains but drifted on plains; very good prospects for water supply. Redriver—L. B. Penn—Snow has drifted into canyons and is compact; outlook for water is good. Chiriquito—Teofilo Vigil—In vicinity of Truchas peaks the snow is six or seven feet deep and in the James mountains about four feet; it is not drifted much. Santa Fe—Frank Owen—The snow in Santa Fe range is deep and well packed and the prospects for water at this season are better than during past six years; at Monument Rock the snow is four feet on the level and in basin above rock five or six feet. Placitas—P. M. Ellis—The snow is not drifted but is very compact. Sulphur Springs—E. D. Fluke—Snow has drifted and become wet and heavy. Bluewater—Tom Davy—Snow is evenly distributed and compact. It is reasonable to expect two thirds more water from snow this year than last. Mountainair—J. W. Corbett—Snow is drifted some but fairly well packed in the mountains. Redriver—E. B. Penn—The snow on the east side of the Black range is confined to the north hillsides and gulches.

San Francisco, Gila and Mimbres.
Alma—M. A. Balke—There is no snow in the valleys. The mountain snow is unevenly distributed and swept into canyons. Aragon—F. Sanchez—Snow was swept into canyons drifted and packed; outlook for water supply is good. Mogollon—J. Dyer—The snow in the mountains has been made compact by rains. Reserve—L. Baldwin—There is lots of snow and it is evenly distributed in the mountains; prospects for water are good. Olla—W. W. Smith—In the snow the snow is in drifts in the canyons, none in valleys or on foot hills; indications for water supply are more favorable than last year.

Pecos Watershed and Southeast.
Cowles—O. J. Cowles—In the canyons the snow is from one to three feet deep and evenly distributed; prospects for water supply are good. Capitan—M. I. Pardee—On the White mountains the snow is evenly distributed and the outlook for water supply is good. Corona—B. Bickham—Snow is swept into canyons and is compact. Cloudcroft—J. L. Bailey—There has been only a moderate snowfall in the higher altitudes of the Sacramento mountains. The snow is confined to canyons and the north sides of hills.

DAUGHTER-IN-LAW SAYS SHE WAS SPANKED

Has Father-in-law Arrested and Her Husband Wants Her Arrested.

Maria Solis de Medina appeared at the office of justice E. B. McClintock yesterday afternoon and swore out a complaint against her father-in-law, Jose Medina, and his wife, Maria Gonzalez de Medina, charging them with assaulting her. She asserted that the elderly couple had spanked her.

This morning Jose Medina and his son were brought into town by deputy constables and stated that the janit had her and shaken her because she spat upon her mother-in-law, a woman more than 70 years of age.

The elderly man said that he had not spanked his daughter-in-law as she had charged, but had merely taken hold of her and shaken her because she spat upon her mother-in-law, a woman more than 70 years of age.

Then the son told justice McClintock that he had heard that his wife, who had filed the complaint against his father, had been married to a man in Mexico at the time he married her several years ago and wanted to file a charge against her. However, the justice dissuaded him, as there were no witnesses to prove the charges, and the elder Medina was sent home to his wife and advised to keep away from his daughter-in-law.

DR. BRUCE SMITH MAY LEAVE HERE

Pastor of the First Baptist Church to Announce Decision Sunday.

Dr. Robert Bruce Smith, pastor of the First Baptist church, returned today from Santa Fe, N. M., where he was called by the First Baptist church.

The Roswell Register-Tribune, the Roswell Record and correspondents in Roswell announce that Dr. Smith has accepted the call to Roswell, assumed his duties and that his family will move there later.

When Dr. Smith was seen today relative to the report that he had accepted the call to the Baptist church in Roswell, N. M., he stated that the report was made prematurely, that he had not yet announced his decision, but that he hoped to be able to make a definite announcement to his congregation tomorrow as to whether he would accept the call to Roswell or to remain with his church in this city. He stated that he had gone over to Roswell the first of the week for a conference with their pulpit committee and to preach on Wednesday night and that the Roswell papers had published his acceptance prior to the conference. He was much pleased with the Roswell field and the splendid congregation to whose pastorate he was called last November.

WHOOPIING COUGH IN WHOLE FAMILY

Mother Fails to Isolate Children and All Are Whooping.

Evidently whooping cough runs in the Acosta families. This morning five children of Genaro Acosta, residing at the corner of St. Vrain and Eighth streets, were taken to the office of Dr. Butler in the city hall and treated. Immediately thereafter, a 6 year old boy named Alfredo Acosta, the son of Jose Acosta, 906 Hill street, was brought in by his mother and treated for the same disease.

"The reason for the five children in the first family having the disease, is that they will not observe quarantine laws and the cases had never been reported," said Dr. Butler. "The mother thought it unnecessary to report the disease until after the whole family had contracted it. The oldest of the children is 14 and the youngest not yet a year old."

CONVICTS TO BUILD ROAD FROM SILVER CITY TO MOGOLLON MINES

Silver City, N. M., Jan. 15.—There arrived on last evening's passenger train from Santa Fe, 40 convicts from the territorial penitentiary, who will be put to work at once on the Mogollon road between Silver City and that rich mining district.

The distance from this city to the Mogollon is about 85 miles and as Silver City is the nearest railroad point all merchandise, mail, etc., is carried overland and as all ore shipped from the district are freighted to Silver City. The mining companies and Great county have for years expended large sums of money in keeping up this road. It was through the earnest efforts of the residents and mining companies of the Mogollon and residents of Silver City, backed by governor Curry, that the convict labor was eventually secured to put the road in good condition.

THE WEATHER.

Forecast.
El Paso and vicinity: Tonight and Sunday unsettled weather; probably fair.

New Mexico: Tonight and Sunday partly cloudy weather with local snow in north portion.

West Texas: Tonight unsettled weather, warmer. Sunday, generally fair; colder in the Panhandle.

Weather Conditions.
The low pressure area central over West Virginia yesterday morning has disappeared by passing to sea.

During the past 24 hours it caused precipitation in northeastern districts, the heaviest amount reported—1.28 inches—being at New York.

The high pressure area has drifted eastward and now covers the eastern half of the country, causing decided temperature falls in east gulf and south.

A low pressure central off the north Pacific coast covers the territory to the west of the Rockies, and rain is falling at San Francisco and in southern Utah, and snow in southwestern Colorado.

Higher temperature occurs over the west-central portion of the country. No zero temperatures this morning.
